

UT-F600P Distribution Network Operation Safety Management and Control System

SUMMARY

The safe and stable operation of distribution network is of great significance to the development of China's economy and society.

This system takes the pre control of distribution network operation safety risk as the core concept, carries out the mandatory specification of the field operation process, controls the unsafe behavior of people, the unsafe state of equipment and the unsafe factors of environment, and realizes the safety control of the whole operation process.

ADVANTAGE

Core error prevention

To lock by forced electriferous detection.

Real time sharing

It can be wireless, and realize real-time data sharing.

Real time control

Online judgment, real-time judgment of whether the operation is in line with the switching error prevention rules.

High security

It can solves the problems of inconvenient, poor anti-theft performance and incomplete record of unlocking authorization caused by the large number of mechanical keys.